His comparison of the teacher of fifty years ago and today was closely listened to and was such as to make the teachers of today feel that while their qualifications are far superior to those of half a century ago, they are also expected to accomplish a great deal nore than did the teachers of old.

He vividly portrayed the responsibility of the teacher and did it in such a way as to give encouragement and make the teacher feel that his profession is indeed a noble one.

REPORTER.

A REPORT is current at Monroe ity that a prominent farmer, whose farm almost runs to the city limits on the north, "got ready to cut his hay last week and couldn't find his mower. Finally he gave up the search and came down town and procured a new machine and started it to work. After cutting for some time he run onto his machine that had been left in the meadow and the grass had grown up around it so thick and high that it could not be seen until they had cut up to it."

Williams was unpacking a box of pears, when he thrust his hand into the box and received a sting. Upon investigation it was found to be a scorpion. Medical aid was at once summoned and Williams taken to his house, where he now lies in a critical condition.

Moberly and Louisiana colored people will each hold agricultural and mechanical fairs this year. A good idea. One that will tend to awaken interest in those industries among colored people and bring them nearer to a level with their neighbors. It is to be hoped, however, ounties having a Boarding Department exthat they will not convert their fairs into exclusively horse races, as is the ease with many of our fairs.

Some good lawyers are said to be of the opinion that the local option law was repealed by the last general assembly. The act operating to repeal the law is said to be inconistent with the local option law and the 29th section expressly repeals all acts or parts inconsistent with the law. This will open up a new avenue On August 25th, September 15th for attacking this already badly crip-

SENATOR PALMER sounded the key note of Democracy at Moberly Tuesday when he told his hearers to abandon the theory that in all times of depression and disaster they should turn to the government for help. The more the people are let alone by the state the more prosperous they will be. To call upon the state to change the immutable laws of trade ton, Jas. Mason, C. W. Rustic, pays the following deserved compliment to Hon. Richard Parks Bland: "Congressman 'Silver Dick' Bland, who is a genuine, full-fledged granger, with 'hay seed in his hair' when on his farm is now busy in the harvest field. He has a fine crop of oats and hay and will raise lots of corn. 'Silver Dick' makes a hand on the farm and can shock or stack as much oats or hay or gether as much corn as any farm hand. He comes nearer being a farmer than any member of congress and his fearless, uncompromising fight for free silver coinage and tariff reduction measures that will most benefit the farmers, is proof of his devotion to their interests. As a farmer and a statesman he is with the great agricultural and laboring class, who have no better friend or abler champion in congress than 'Silver Dick' Bland." THERE is said to be $60,000,000 buried five miles south of Warrensburg, buried there in 1783, by the French. Many dollars have been spent in the search for the hidden treasure, and up to this date it has not been found, although a chairvovant, of St. Louis, says she can locate the money and is now at Warrensburg in search of the wealth.
